DIG OUT OF WHIST STORM
IN YEARS IN NEW MEXICO
Albuquerque, N. M.—Although more than 24 hours had elapsed since snow stopped falling, New Mexico early today was still trying to "dig out" of one of the worst blizzards in years, which resulted in at least 10 deaths and blocked railroad and auto traffic in many parts of the state.

Telephone reports from Socorro and San Marcial last night stated that 72 automobiles with more than 300 passengers were snowbound in Nogal canyon, on the highway to Hot Springs, N. M., and that 100 members of the party, were trying to dig a passage way out through the snow drifts in the canyon.

Food and blankets were taken to the canyon from San Marcial, the reports stated.

President's Message Great for Profiteer; Magnate—La Follette

Madison.—President Coolidge's first message to Congress was declared to be "able, concise and frank presentation of the standpoint, a statement by United States Senator, Robert M. La Follette, made public here today. There is nothing in the message that will offend the "most sensitive of the big business interests," the statement said.

"It is to be congratulated to champion the interests of the railroads, the profiteers, the coal magnates and our other over lords against the mass of the people," the Wisconsin senator declared. "There is no fairness in it must be conceded that the president has earned the tributes to his courage so warmly accorded by many of the newspapers of the country."

"There is little in the message that will satisfy the mass of the American people," Mr. La Follette stated that the president's commendation in respect to agriculture, "tells the farmer to help himself and to pull himself out of the difficulties into which the 'deflation' policy, the Each-Cummes law and other acts of the federal government have thrown him."

"The president has elected to cast his lot with the reactionaries of his own party who have been repudiated by the country and to promote the welfare of those predatory special interests who have thrived for a generation upon favors and subsidies exacted from the federal government," Senator La Follette concluded.

Hamlet Moral, Edict of Solenn Policeman at Barrymore Drama
New York.—Hamlet, as acted by John Barrymore, was viewed by a million of the law last night and found fault from its morality. Police Sergeant Stewart DeWitt went to investigate a complaint that the play contained naughty lines and that it idealized murder. From eight o'clock until the midnight prince spoke his last line and died, Sergeant DeWitt sat in a box seat and watched every move and pondered every line.

His report to his superior officer follows:

"Hamlet O. K. Used to recite it myself when I was a kid and it wasn't any worse tonight than it was then."

SOUTHERN STATES ACTION MAY MEAN CONVENTION FIGHT

Washington.—Indications are becoming clearer that the republican national convention may be a scene of a sharp fight over the national committee's action in restoring the delegate strength of southern states in the election of 1920. This week of re-apportionment figures, Senator Johnson, in a statement, characterizes the revision as an act by which the republican states are "nullified" and "southern states are where there is no republican party, and where delegations some times are a farce and a scandal, are rewarded."

"The resolution of the national convention has been disregarded," he declared; "the will of the republican party, flouted."

Chairman of the other hand, says the revision adds only nine delegates to the 1920 apportionment of the southern states as compared with the 1912 apportionment. President Harding and asserts that the committee's action was a measure of "justice to congressional districts."

The revision, however, is a measure of "justice to congressional districts."

BANDIT GETS 76 CENTS; JAIL

Fresno, Cal.—Claude Ray Kohl, 37, who was held in Fresno on a $10,000 bond for a month's leave of absence from the Oklahoma state penitentiary, granted by J. C. Walton, deposed governor, was captured by two police here last night, 22 miles after his escape, and is now in the county jail. Kohl, who was arrested by a posse of 10 men, was found in a field near the town of Sheppard, where he had been hiding. Kohl, police say, rang the door bell of the Sheppard home, thrust a revolver into Sheppard's face, and robbed the family of 76 cents.

Clever Methods of Fraud Promoter Told by Friends

Chicago.—The origin of the "Panama oil bubble," organized as the Bayano River Trust Co., in which friends and relatives of Leo Koretz are said to have lost millions, today was ascribed by his intimate friends to a swindle perpetrated on Koretz in 1910.

"A relative of an attorney named Dan Belasco," attorney Francis E. Matthews said, "came here in 1910 announcing he had concessions for rich timberlands in Panama. He sought some one to invest $10,000 to pay for cutting and shipping some of the timber. Koretz invested that amount and that was the last seen of that promoter."

"Got Idea There"

"Koretz made a special trip to Panama to hunt for the man and while there, he evidently acquired a lot of local color, for his own venture—the Bayano company, and the invention which carried him through 13 years of frenzied life."

"Those who invested with Koretz described his methods as the exact reverse of the ordinary type of promoter. He was invariably reluctant to accept the money of his friends in investment in his schemes, and always made it appear that he had to sacri-

Couzens May Be Compromise for Committee Head

Washington.—The organization troubles of the republican house leaders increased today at the same time that the senate organization row was showing signs of subsiding.

The republican insurgent group in the house, negotiating with the democrats for a coalition to control the new legislative committee, made such progress that a floor fight on the subject seemed likely to develop when the committee assignments were brought in for approval.

On the senate side, well-defined movement developed to end the deadlock over election of a chairman of the interstate commerce committee by the selection of Senator Couzens, republican of Michigan.

There were indications that he would be satisfactory to the republican senate insurgents, who have elected a deadlock in refusing to support Senator Cummins of Iowa, the regular republican choice for the chairmanship. There were signs also that some of the organization leaders who have voted for Cummins throughout would also be willing to throw their strength to the Michigan senator when the bill is resumed.

It had been the plan of the majority house leaders to present their committee slates for approval today.

Instead they asked for an adjournment until tomorrow, 10 minutes after the session began. Immediately afterward, Democratic Leader Garrett announced the democrats would hold a caucus tomorrow morning before the house convenes.

BUY NOTED SIRE AT AURORA SALE

W. J. Ward and Son and Archie Reid, Jr., Purchase Star Lyons Payne.

One more noted Holstein sire was added to Rock county's growing list when W. J. Ward and Sons, Avon, and Archie Reid, Jr., Janesville, joined to purchase Star Lyons Payne, a two year old, at the Colstream Farm dispersal sale at Aurora. The animal was one of the tops of the auction and will be used on the large herds owned by the buyers.

The new bull is a son of King Pontiac Hengerveld with 23 A. R. O. daughters with the grand-sire the famous King of the Pontiacs having 23 A. R. O. daughters. The dam is Star Belle De Kol Lyons, bred and raised in Jefferson county and reputed to be one of the best Holstein cows ever sent out of the state. She has an official record of 23.12 pounds of butter and 681.30 pounds of milk in 30 days. She is bred to a son of the only 50 pound cow of the breed, Zola Norcross De Kol, and this cow was purchased by W. J. Ward and Son. This bull topped the sale at $2,500. The dam of Star Lyons Payne at one time weighed more than a ton and carried extreme good type.

The Ward herd is one of the highest producing collections of Holsteins in Wisconsin county testing association work, being one of the high herds in the long established Clinton-Rock County C. T. A.

Star Lyons Payne is a welcome addition to the new sire brought into the county to raise Holstein standards.

FAVOR GRADE SALE AT COUNTY AUCTION

Holstein Association Holds Annual Meeting — Directors Elected.

Recommendations that in future county consignment sales, high grades with C. T. A. records be sold during the evening, with purebreds going through the auction ring in the afternoon were made at the annual meeting of the Rock county Holstein association held in the Janesville Y. M. C. A. Thursday afternoon. The proposal is to obtain a consignment of quality grades all have known yearly production in order to offer superior sales service to association members and Holstein breeders. The annual meeting was attended by 40 members, who were enthusiastic over the Holstein progress made in Rock county and pledged support to continue the development program with special attention to junior club work.

Arthur Tollefson, Henry Wieland, Jr., E. P. Coon and A. A. McGinnity were named as directors for three years, completing the executive board membership. The executive board will meet in January to name the association officers.

County Progressing

"I am convinced that within a reasonable time Rock county is going to be outstanding in Wisconsin as a producer of good cattle, especially Holsteins," declared President J. A. Craig, who presided. "We must stick to the test, follow the true type models, push testing for bovine tuberculosis until there is no question about leadership."

"Experience is proving that cow testing association record work is meeting what the farmer demands in known production. I predict that in five years a breeder will have trouble in selling stock without C. T. A. records. Clean cattle, sold honestly with known records under practical tests will win a greater reputation for our county."

Following the report of E. P. Coon, chairman of the Holstein calf club, the membership extended a vote of appreciation for his work and supervision. It was recommended that prizes be awarded not only for type and quality, but also the award of a separate series of premiums in which records are considered, including feed costs and care that the junior member has given the calf.

Reports Are Made

Frank Milbrandt, Evansville, suggested a policy of selling good purebred sires on the installment plan as one means of eradicating the scrub sire and putting superior bulls in service.

"However, I am convinced that our junior clubs are doing a great good in arousing interest in better stock, especially better sires," declared Milbrandt.

John L. Fisher told of the success of the fair exhibit and the record of the show herd. It was suggested that next year a demonstration train of Rock county stock be sent through a series of grain growing states, where farmers are now turning to dairying, to conclude with an exhibit at the Portland exposition.

Dr. G. W. Post, Milton, spoke of the good association work and the manner in which the county's reputation has been increased.

Henry Wieland, Jr., Beloit, in reporting on the county sales called for close culling and offering of more superior stock.

County Agent R. T. Glasco urged the continuation of association work and an enlargement of the junior clubs.

Praise for Bureau

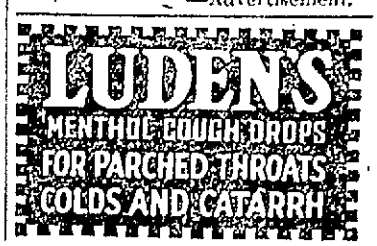

Determination to put Holstein sales, both auction and private treaty, on a more firm basis was sounded by members during the meeting. Members declared they wanted cattle sold out of the county that would prove profitable and acceptable when delivered.

The 1924 program of the Holstein association will be extended with the hopes of giving greater service to the grade owner as well as the purebred breeder. The association hopes to double the membership in the calf club and put out another creditable show herd next year.

The work of the Farm Bureau in supporting breed development and livestock promotion work was praised by President Craig, who reelected instance of "real service—that, put dollars in the farmers' pockets!"

Concerning Oriental Rugs

Of all industrial arts weaving probably is the most ancient. Present mention is made of it in the Bible. The ancient Egyptian goddess Isis was represented with a shuttle in her hand. Thus the history of ancient countries shows that the people of the Orient acquired a proficiency in this work which they have never lost. For generations these patient toilers have woven the elaborate rugs and carpets used in the churches, mosques and palaces of Europe and Asia.

During the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia, in 1876, rugs imported from the Orient were exhibited in this country. At first it was thought that only the wealthy could afford to purchase them, but time has proved that the cheapest handmade rug is better in the long run than the best machine made rug. The practical American has come to realize and appreciate the economy of purchasing goods of superlative merit.

One of the chief characteristics of an Oriental rug is its durability. The desire of the Oriental weaver to do the best work of which he is capable, coupled with the method of weaving employed, results in great strength of texture. The wool, the warp and the pile are fastened carefully by hand, so that a tear, a burn, or any other injury is entirely local and does not affect the rest of the rug. Even if the rug is damaged without repair, it will not unravel, and when the injury finally is mended, the carpet is as good as new.

Months to Make a Rug.
Oriental rugs are made entirely by hand; even the yarn is hand-spun and hand-dyed. Each loop as it is drawn through the warp is firmly drawn and securely tied, so as not to pull out. It takes months of steady labor to make the smallest rug, years to make a large one, and the deft fingers of the Orientals weave intricate designs into these most sturdy floor coverings.

The color in Oriental rugs is an essential factor in their value. The genuine ones never fade. Neither sun nor rain affects the dyes, which not only last unimpaired for centuries, but also improve the wearing qualities of the wool. All these dyes are vegetable and are produced by processes of distillation and fermentation. Each tribe or family has the secret of making certain colors which cannot be reproduced by other persons. Often when a tribe becomes extinct the secret of some valuable dye which has been carefully guarded is lost forever. Thus the coloring of a rug not only helps to establish its identity but it is a valuable asset. It is known that such and such a color has been lost for 100, or 200, or 500 years; therefore they fix an approximate age for the rug corresponding to the period before the colors present in it ceased to be made.

Just as the coloring of rugs identifies them, designs also may establish their age and origin. The hundreds of years certain tribes have used particular figures or patterns. All the figures and borders have a significance. Frequently they relate to tribal secrets and their meaning is shrouded in mystery. Some of the figures have the significance of a trade mark or coat of arms. It is not so recently known that the colors entering into the rugs tell a story also.

To an Orientalist a rug speaks in more ways than one. The Egyptians regarded white as the emblem of purity; red and yellow of sorrow. The Babylonians worked their religion into their rugs, making scarlet stand for fire, blue for air, and green for water. With the Persians black and indigo represent sorrow; red, wisdom. The Turks regard white and green as sacred, and red is their patriotic color. With the Chinese yellow is the symbol of royalty, red of virtue. With all the rug weavers of the Orient, therefore, colors are a language, and when the expression is so severely forced, it is nevertheless in a sense, true that the weavers work into their rugs a sort of poetry which only the initiated can read. The same practice is followed today, and in antiquity, despite the fact that western merchants, by their power of accretion or withholding patronage, have made their influence felt in the matter of patterns and colors.

When We Buy.
With careful selection and ordinary care the value of rugs will increase rather than diminish as the years go by. Oriental rugs and carpets should be cleaned in the Oriental method once in two years. Rightly it may be said that the only real enemy of Oriental rugs is the dirt and the dust which accumulate within the warp and inside the pile, rotting and destroying these in the course of time. Surface cleaning accomplished by compressed air, application and vacuum devices is good as far as it goes, but deep cleansing is required to bring out again the beautiful designs and colors which time has dimmed. By Oriental cleaning at two-year intervals the life of a rug is extended for as much as three generations.

There are more reasons for the purchase of Oriental rugs than those of mere sentiment and the desire for something from a far country. When one comes to the point of Oriental rugs, even the most expensive of them is cheap at the retail prices. To make a rug 4x6 in size, Anatolian or Persian maidens will have to work quite steadily for three months as the rug stands for 25 weeks of skilful hand labor by one girl. Even in our large manufacturing centers $3 a week is a low wage for a girl capable of doing as good work as is needed for Oriental rug knotting. Thus a medium grade Turkish or Persian rug, when judged by American standards, actually costs in today's labor market the same as to say nothing of the value of the wool, the dyer's work, and the necessary supervision of an adult. Add to these the expense of freight and other charges, and $10 is not a high price to place on a rug representing the intrinsic value of what is considered an ordinary rug. True it is that labor is cheap in the Orient, but it is none the less good on that account. Its cheapness allows many an American to own rugs of a quality that otherwise would be found only in the palaces of kings and the homes of millionaires.

WILL FREE 3 SUSPECTS IN ROBBERY

Jefferson—Three Fort Atkinson men arrested Thursday night on suspicion in connection with the robbery of the International Bank of Cambridge early Tuesday will be released Friday afternoon by Sheriff Dennis Smith.

The men arrested are Leon Young, 21, "Punk" Smith, 22, and La Rue Damugh, 22. Sheriff Smith and Detective Garvey of the Burns agency made their arrests and after questioning them said there was nothing which might warrant holding them.

Five men robbed the Cambridge bank and obtained $1,500 in Liberty bonds and $750 in cash.

"No, sir," said the native. "I'll be a miracle," said the fisherman.

"TRUTH SERUM" DOCTOR EXPLAINS HOW IT OPERATES

Dr. R. L. House.

The theory upon which he works in injecting scopolamin, the "truth serum," to force veracity on persons, was explained by Dr. R. L. House, of Ferris, Tex., its discoverer, at a demonstration before several hundred doctors, psychologists and criminologists in New Orleans. He says that when a subject has been placed under the influence of scopolamin, the subject's mind comes into play and cannot lie.

terday, according to the official reports received here. With the routing of the irregulars, the rebels said, one of Estrada's captains deserted, his troops and joined the federals, bringing with him 160 men and 125,000 pesos in money.

The rapidly with which the troops of the Obregon government moved from Tijuana to the scene of the battle, a distance of 160 kilometers, was said to indicate they were traveling by railway.

The clash occurred only 80 kilometers from Guadalupe, capital of Jalisco, where General Estrada has his headquarters and upon which an advance was said by delayed Tijuana reports to have been begun Wednesday by federals.

Early Victory Seen.
"In my judgment there can be little doubt of the early and successful issue of the campaign," President Obre-gon telegraphed the El Paso (Tex.)
Times from Guadalupe. "Traitors have not a chance to control the government of Mexico today," he said, declaring that the movements headed by Generals Estrada and Sanchez were not of sufficient importance to be designated as a "revolution."

Mayor Elect Miguel Elizondo of Matamoros has been taken to Mexico city under federal guard, while other political prisoners at Matamoros, held since that city went under martial law last Friday, were released but required to remain in the city.

General Edouard Calles, former commandant of fiscal guards of Sonora, had left Magdalena, Sonora, under orders of the central government, to take command of the garrison at San Luis Potosi. It was officially announced at Nogales, Ariz.

The Bonus Law First.

Introduction of a bill providing for adjusted compensation for service men is the first step toward legislation of a controversial character in congress. As indicated in the Washington correspondence to the Gazette in the last week, the bonus law will have precedence over any other legislation having to do with taxation or reduction of government expenses. That it will pass both senate and house is believed most likely. That it will pass the house by an overwhelming vote is almost certain. It may be talked to a long delay in the senate and only by a filibuster of the same character that killed the ship subsidy bill, will it be possible to sidetrack it.

The bonus law has the support of the most powerful group of senators in congress. It will also have the support of the radical group. Here there will be a meeting on common ground. It is supported by some of the senators who are outstandingly in favor of Calvin Coolidge for president. The difference over the bonus has not changed this support. They hold that they may differ with him and still see in the president a logical successor to himself. The bonus law is opposed by almost every financial institution and group in the country. It has a few opponents among the service men themselves but these are generally officers or former officers of the army of 1918. The private soldier is almost to a unit in favor of the bonus. There is no connection between "measuring patriotism with the dollar" as is constantly iterated and reiterated. That expression coming from men who made millions out of the war falls like dead ashes from the lips of profiteers. It may be argued that the country is in no position financially to pay a bonus with taxation dragging at every man and woman in the nation. That is quite another thing. You cannot, however, always measure duty by dollars. When the argument is based on justice and duty, carrying out a promise always implied and frequently expressed in the time when we were seeking with frantic haste and desire, man-power for the war, the bonus wins. We paid more or less willingly, millions upon millions for munitions plants, for equipment to outfitting contractors, more millions to camp and cantonment builders and we junked billions of dollars' worth of equipment when the war was over. We accepted this as a matter of course. What tax burden we have, what debt we have, what interest we pay, what obligations are pending in Liberty and other bonds, are only in small part caused by what we paid direct to service men. When we think of these enormous sums, the amount asked for the adjusted compensation looks like a small item over which to quibble.

The Last of the Pinkertons.

Allan Pinkerton was the first man in this country to raise the detective above mediocrity. France and her famous secret service men and Javert, created by Victor Hugo, as the relentless pursuer of Jean Valjean in the tale of Les Misérables, was something of the type of man which the past generation knew in Allan Pinkerton and the present one in his son, William A. Pinkerton, who has just passed away at an old age. Allan Pinkerton, long before Conan Doyle was born, had created a Sherlock Holmes in actual life. None of the operatives at Scotland Yard were more keen or more successful than this Illinois copper turned into a nemesis of criminals. William A. Pinkerton succeeded his father as an enemy of crime. He was relentless and persistent. And the name of the family will be a part of the American history of the underworld as long as the chronicles exist. There are those who would not care to have a reputation like this; it may not be envied by all but it is well to do what is to be done, whether a detective or something else, better than others. And that was the real secret of the elder Pinkerton's success and also of his son's.

After going around New York for a few days one is convinced that the American language needs revision.

A rugged character passed from earthly scenes a few days ago when John R. Rathmon, editor of the Providence, R. I. Journal and the Evening Bulletin of that city, died. He is remembered as the man who exposed and saw that Boy-Ed and other German conspirators and spies were sent from the country. He was a fighter and was making trouble for somebody with plenty of fun beside. He was a man of wide and varied information, a native of Australia, a traveler in a hundred fields before he settled down in the capital of Rhode Island and as a newspaper man had few equals in his wide knowledge and ability. His restless spirit found vent in scores of channels for the newspaper which he edited and he made of that old and very conservative paper an institution for public benefit with few rivals. He was a builder of a great community spirit in Rhode Island.

Now then this scoundrel, which makes people tell the truth, ought to be forcibly fed to congress.

Lieut. J. J. Williams, the new chief of police of Detroit, appears to be possessed of a notion that the laws and ordinances of his city are made to be enforced, and what has heretofore been

A CLIMATIC TIDE

By FRIDERIC J. HASKIN.

Washington.—No less an official than the Chief of the United States Weather Bureau, Charles F. Marvin, has come forward with scientific data in support of the old belief that climatic change. This long has been a subject of controversy. Nearly all old people feel that the winters of their youth were colder, that the snow fell in greater abundance, that harder thunderstorms occurred and that there were more arid droughts and more torrential rains. Almost invariably, the scientists report that this is wholly imagination and that the weather is about the most constant factor in the life of the globe.

Dr. Marvin would not agree with all the statements which are made about how cold the winters used to be, but he has made an elaborate meteorological study which does show that climatic changes may vary to some extent. Dr. Marvin subscribes to the general statement that, in general terms, the climate of the earth has changed very little in 4,000 years, but he does declare that he "is inclined to believe that important long-time fluctuations of climatic conditions have occurred and that minor surges of the seasons to and fro can and do take place and prevail over restricted regions for relatively long periods of time like 50 or 100 years."

Dr. Marvin's investigations so far have related chiefly to the detection of differences in the extent of rainfall over given periods, but as some of the meteorological conditions which would affect the volume of rainfall presumably would affect other climatic phenomena, it may be proved later that other alterations have taken place. Certainly, this inquiry shows that there have been changes in the volume of snowfall.

In summarizing the findings in the report on his inquiry, Dr. Marvin declares: "While there is no evidence indicating any permanent changes in climate, these studies demonstrate that more or less definite epochs occur from time to time when the climatic conditions of a move or less limited region suffer a material change in the value of the running average of conditions. These periods may prevail from 50 to 100 years or more, after which some other marked change occurs."

While meteorology is not a new science, having been practiced by the priests of Egypt in the days before the birth of Christ, there are not available many exact records running back for a long time. Dr. Marvin had to scan the ground pretty carefully for the data on which to base his observations. He discovered that, prompted by a summer of severe drought in 1749, Prof. Winthrop of Cambridge, Mass., began to keep a record of annual rainfall. This is regarded as the oldest record of the kind available in this country.

The record extends from 1750 to 1774, inclusive. At the latter date it was broken off, but after a gap of two years, another such record was started at Watertown, not far distant. This covers only the years 1777 and 1778—years in which the Revolutionary War was in progress. Five years later another record was begun at Andover, 20 miles from Boston, and this was continued until 1786. Other nearby records take the tale up to 1804. Then a long hiatus of 13 years occurred in which the nearly record could be found. In 1818 Dr. Enoch Hens began a rainfall record which he continued until 1822 and Jonathan P. Hall took up the work and continued it until 1866. This brought the record up to the period of the Civil War, when many records had become available.

From these records, Dr. Marvin has drawn the conclusion that for from 90 to 100 years, prior to 1840, the vicinity of Boston had an annual rainfall of from 40 to 40 1/2 inches. Somewhere between 1846 and 1849 a climatic change began to take place because from that time onward for 50 years the same vicinity received rainfall averaging 44.7 inches a year.

In measuring rainfall climatologists include snowfall. This means that in the increase of more than four inches a year in the total precipitation of moisture, a duo proportion of snow has been included. This epoch of half a century of heavier precipitation appears by the records to have ended about 29 years ago and there are indications that the Boston region is returning to its old basis of about 40 inches of rain and snow a year. Of course very few persons would remember the winters of more than 70 years ago when the rain and snowfall were lighter. But a great many old and middle-aged persons would remember the 50 year period which was tapering off about 29 years ago and these, according to the scientific data assembled by Dr. Marvin, apparently would be justified in declaring that the snows were heavier when they were children.

Dr. Marvin says that he has no doubt some fellow scientists will attack his conclusions on the ground that the more or less amateur experimenters and observers of a century and more ago were not as accurate, particularly in the matter of measuring snowfall, as the meteorologists of today. Dr. Marvin admits the plausibility of this theory but rallies to the defense of the old-time observers. He declares that anyone who makes a study of the early records will find increasing confidence in the ability and accuracy of the pioneer American weather men. He says he has been surprised to find a high order of scientific merit betrayed in the old records. In addition, points out that it would be only reasonable to suppose that if inaccuracies occurred in the records they would be no more likely to represent excesses than deficits and that, therefore, over a term of years, the general average would not turn out approximately the same.

In addition to the New England records, Dr. Marvin studied records made at Marietta, Ohio, and at Padua, in Italy. These records, in general, contribute to substantiation of the theory that changes do take place in restricted regions over fairly long terms of years.

Dr. Marvin's investigations indicate that there is a tide in climate which swings back and forth over long periods. His report would not appear to show that the earth is growing perceptibly cooler or perceptibly warmer. It merely shows that people who live in one community for the normal span of 70 to 75 years are likely actually to experience slight changes in climate. It is natural that these changes should become magnified in the minds of people, especially as the changes come so slowly that the difference reported in middle life or old age would be based on a childish memory.

considered a funny performance by bootleggers and moonshine makers has become a serious offense. Beloit cleaned up and its alien bunch given to understand that there is to be some justice administered, will be a big help toward making Janesville a better city.

"Steamboat travel is safer than on railroads," says a report of the Department of Commerce. There were 23,000,000 passengers carried and only 59 lost their lives by accident. That is safer than walking across a Milwaukee street.

Bootleggers have attempted to make a record by putting more into Baltimore.

There are almost as many bills already in congress as the Wisconsin legislature had to deal with and some of them are as equally unimportant and freakish.

"Mars is as full of life as the earth," says a noted—they are always noted—astronomer. Coolidge and all, we suppose.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

HYPOCRISY

It is all in vain to preach of the truth to the eager ears of a trusting youth. If, whenever the lad is standing by, his secret fount and his heart are true. Fine words may grace the advice you give, But youth will learn from the way you live.

Honor's a word that a thief may use, High-sounding language that he may choose. Speech is empty and his deeds aren't square. Though the truth shines clear and the lesson's plain; If you play false, he will turn away, For your life must square to the things you say.

He won't tread the path of your righteous talk, But will follow the path which you daily walk. "Not as I do, but do as I say" Won't win him to follow the better way; Through the thin veneer of your speech he'll see Unless you're the man you would have him be.

The longer you live, you will find this true: As you would teach, you must also do. Rounder sentences, smoother and fair, Were better not said if your deeds aren't square. You must live your life to live in his very best, You must live your life to the self-same test.

WHO'S WHO TODAY

SEN. IRVINE L. LENROOT

Complete divorce of the League of Nations "from any control whatever" over the world court is provided for in a set of reservations which Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin has introduced in the senate. By many political observers this is accepted as the administration plan of ratifying the world court. Lenroot insists that the plan be his own, but it is believed the White House knew of his plans before the reservations were introduced and that there will be no opposition to them.

Lenroot has been an interesting and influential figure in national politics almost since the day in 1912 when he stepped to the platform in the national convention and delivered a thrilling speech in behalf of Theodore Roosevelt.

He entered congress the first time for the Sixth district in 1914, and served five terms. Then, on April 2, 1915, he was elected to the senate to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Huston. He was re-elected in 1920.

During his career he has been a leading advocate of laws for the conservation of natural resources and has favored government supervision of railroads. He fought against the anti-strike clause in the Cummins railroad bill when that bill was before the congress. As his part in the war tax situation, he introduced an amendment that increased the surtaxes on large incomes 25 per cent more than that originally proposed by the Democratic leaders.

He was born in Superior, Wis., January 31, 1869, and started life as a court reporter.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

BEFORE A MAN MARRIES

"A man in his early forties is calling on a woman, such as the correspondent 'and' seems anxious to see no very often. I hear that there is insanity in his mother's family and that his mother was in an asylum and some of his past loves were Phaeas and some other relations of his mother were mentally defective, but his father's family was all right. Would it be safe to marry this man? That is, would it be likely to go against him, or would children inherit a mental defect? (M. D. G.)"

I get many letters from prospective brides who are disturbed by a similar anxiety, and nearly as many from potential bridegrooms with similar doubts.

When a girl consents to be spliced with a man over 40 years old she ought to get a darned good bargain, and no mistake.

Now whatever the law or the customs may be at present, there is one thing certain, and that is the duty a prospective bridegroom owes the woman he means to wed. That duty demands that he shall present to her proper guardian or to the woman herself if she has no guardian, the certificate of a reputable physician which will show the man's marriability. No man worth marrying can object to furnishing such a certificate—if a man hesitates about this he is a very good man not to marry.

It may be contended that the prospective bride is equally bound to furnish the bridegroom some such certificate. I do not think so. I think that if a woman is desirous of a wife or desirable, that is sufficient. There is the "double standard" of morals which, in spite of all modern crusades, still seems good enough for most men as long as the various ideas prevail, no man is above suspicion and no man may consider himself too honorable to furnish the certificate of his fitness for marriage. A woman, thank God, is pure until proven guilty. A man, thanks to the "double standard," may bring some evidence besides his own word or reputation, and it doesn't matter a little bit who or what the man may be.

However, such as the correspondent refers to in her letter today, should not be given much weight in making a decision about marriage. It is as likely to mislead one as another.

Certainly there are many men who are clean and fit to marry, whether they are 20, 30, 40 or older. But a man who is clean and fit will never for an instant hesitate about seeking the certificate of a reputable physician as a preliminary to an engagement to marry.

This is a wicked world and the wickedest and cruellest part of it is the suffering of wives and young mothers who have been persuaded to marry unfit men, just because somebody neglected to attend to the small formality of the prospective bridegroom's health certificate.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

How Come?

Here's a question that comes in about four times a week. "Please tell me, if it hurts to eat raw potatoes, I manage to consume nine or ten small potatoes a day, all raw. (M. D. Murphy)."

Answer.—On the contrary, if you like raw potatoes, it's a healthy practice to eat 'em raw. Only remember, potatoes are good substitutes for meat, but not a day ought to keep a couple of policemen fairly well nourished if they'd only keep meat.

My mother maintains that swallowing the seeds of grapes will cause appendicitis. I told her the chances of getting appendicitis are the same whether one swallows the seeds or not. (Who is right?)

Answer.—The fancy that the seeds of fruits may cause appendicitis probably arose from the observation of the earlier surgeons who often found seedlike fecal masses in the diseased appendix or, sometimes, actual seeds. But we know now that such foreign bodies cannot get into the normal appendix. The chances of a chronically diseased appendix. The foreign bodies do not cause appendicitis. I believe swallowing the seeds of grapes rather tends to prevent appendicitis.

Q. Where can I get details about the cure for cancer? A. Q.

A. The American Society for the Cure of Cancer says that Sir William Yeno, who has made large gifts to further cancer research, says that the statement published in papers quoting him as saying cancer research doctors in London had discovered the cause of cancer, was "an untrue and misleading statement." He is more meant to say that "important and inspiring work" along the lines of cancer research was going on in the British capital but that he knew nothing about a cure or the cause of cancer having been discovered.

Q. Was there a time prior to the present when sculptors colored their work? A. Q.

A. The sculptors of classic and medieval times practiced this custom. In the case of sculpture in the "grand style," polychromy was not abolished until the Renaissance and the modern day. At that time antique statues which had been washed white by the rain were discovered and their beauty and the custom of coloring marble to fall into disuse.

Q. Why do chains drag on the ground on railroad trucks? G. S.

A. The chain is used to free the truck from static. Static electricity collects on movable objects and on objects subjected to friction. Considerable friction is caused by filling and emptying the tanks of the truck. The dragging chains ground any electricity thus generated.

LATEST MARKET REPORT

"TODAY'S MARKETS TODAY"

GRAIN

Chicago.—With heavy rains hampering the Argentine harvest, wheat scored a record high price today. The market displayed stubborn resistance to selling pressure, commission houses were the chief buyers. Opening prices, which varied from a shade to 1/2 higher, Dec. $1.04 and May $1.09 1/2, were followed by moderate further gains, and then something of a reaction.

Resistant selling corn sent both corn and wheat downward today in the last hour. Reports that about a hundred carloads of Canadian wheat were arriving daily at Minneapolis had also a bearing effect. Wheat closed heavy, 1/2 to 3/4 in net lower, Dec. $1.04 1/2 and May $1.08 1/2, to $1.03 1/2.

Subsequent weakness in wheat was largely the result of sympathy with decline in corn.

Corn and oats responded to wheat strength, despite predictions of enlarged receipts of corn. After opening unchanged to 1/2 lower, May 72 1/2, 73 1/2, the market made a little advance all around.

Later a broadening out of selling took place, and a recovery was effected. The close was heavy, 1/2 to 3/4 in net lower, May 72 1/2, 73 1/2, to 72 1/2.

Oats started a shade to 1/2 higher, May 47 1/2, and later held near to the initial figures.

Higher quotations on hogs gave firmness to the provision market.

WISCONSIN TOBACCO MARKET.
Watertown—The Wisconsin Tobacco Reporter Friday says:
"Activity in the market the past week seems to be moneyed and largely by the pool. Aside from their reported sale last week of a large quantity of the new crop, they report inquiries very numerous and sales being consummated almost daily. Sampling of their remaining 1922, 7,000 cases, has been started this week at the several points where this tobacco is stored. Some 2500 cases are said to be in stock. No call for the pool's old tobacco has been forthcoming as yet, but with the limited quantity of this year's crop, they expect the market to absorb the old stock in due time."

The much looked for schedule of prices for pool tobacco is being made a slightly higher than last year's and is as follows:

Northern.
"A quality—18 inches and up, 40c; under 18 inches, 14c; rugs, 9c."
"B quality—18 inches and up, 35c; under 18 inches, 11c; rugs, 9c."
"C quality—18 inches and up, 30c; under 18 inches, 10c; rugs, 9c."
"D quality—18 inches and up, 21c; under 18 inches, 13c; rugs, 9c."

Southern.
"A quality—18 inches and up, 35c; under 18 inches, 14c; rugs, 9c."
"B quality—18 inches and up, 32c; under 18 inches, 11c; rugs, 9c."
"C quality—18 inches and up, 27c; under 18 inches, 12c; rugs, 9c."
"D quality—18 inches and up, 21c; under 18 inches, 13c; rugs, 9c."

"The price paid for each crop is determined by the weight of this year's crop, and the weight of the above grades computed at the above prices."

"Checks for final payment of all pools, including stemming, are being sent to growers; also a certificate of indebtedness bearing 6 per cent and maturing in five years is being mailed to every grower to cover the 15c retained for working capital and permanent improvements."

Boys' Examinations—Dr. Frank Van Kirk will assist the physical director of the Y. M. C. A., with the examinations being conducted for all boys who are members of the association. At the recent meeting of the British Association, a demonstration was given in connection with the wonderful talking ray of the phonophone.

The greatest advantage of this apparatus is its secrecy; only persons to whom the ray is directed can receive the messages. A ray of light is reflected from an electric lamp, and the vibrations of the human voice cause the light ray to tremble and oscillate slightly. These tremblings are picked up at the receiving end of the phonophone by selenium cells and translated back again, through a telephone receiver, into intelligible sounds.

Washington—Mrs. Coolidge has retained an assistant secretary, secretary, insisting that all letters be answered.

WAL WORTH COUNTY

ELKHORN

ELKHORN—The dedicatory service for the recently completed Methodist church, corner of Grand and Court streets, will take place at 2 p. m. Sunday, Dec. 16. Bishop C. B. Mitchell of St. Paul, presiding bishop of this state, will preach the sermon.

Union services Sunday night will be held in the new Methodist church. Bishop Charles B. Mitchell will deliver the sermon. The Rev. P. J. Turner, Janesville, district superintendent, will be present and take part with the local pastors. Misses E. T. Ridgway and George Davies will sing solos. The Methodist society will realize over $400 from the bazaar and chicken pie supper given Wednesday.

The young woman agent has secured a sufficient number of guarantors and Elkhorn is booked for a 1924 summer chalet.

The Cornish Avenue club will meet Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rector, Sugar Creek, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Davis constituting the committee. So far this season the programs have consisted largely of "stunts" of general interest.

The Amateurs circle will pack a box of clothing Saturday at the Congregational church for missionary purposes in northern Wisconsin. Warm clothes and shoes for children are needed. Packages may be left with Hazel Spitzer at the garage. The box must go by freight Monday.

Mrs. H. W. Burch, the Misses Mary Dunn and Mabel Perla served on the committee Wednesday night.

Linn H. Phelps, a member of the county board from La Grange and one of that town's prominent farmers, visited Elkhorn Tuesday. He talked "eggs" mostly, that being an interesting subject at this season when they are 40 cents a dozen. Mr. Phelps said they were getting 175 eggs a day. They raised 300 pullets the past season and to realize over 50 per cent production this early is unusual.

At the W. R. MANAGER CREATES ORGANIZATION PLAN

Chart Shows Five Departments Directly Responsible to Manager.

Creation of five departments of general city government, in addition to the school system, is announced by City Manager Henry Traxler with the completion of an organization chart, blue-prints of which are being made in the city engineer's office this week.

The five divisions announced are: Department of finance, department of public works, department of health, department of safety, and department of law.

The chart shows how each of these departments is responsible to the city manager, who is in turn directly responsible to the council. Organizations responsible to the council are listed as: Library board, committee of public works, and city plan commission. The three units responsible directly to the people are the council, the school board, and the municipal judge.

Chart Shows General Duties. Following is an explanation of the various classifications, or departments, responsible to the manager: Department of Finance—Collection of taxes, all receipts and disbursements, water rents collection, assessment of property and purchasing.

Personnel: City engineer, engineer in charge of streets, engineer in charge of water works, department stenographer, instrument men, rodmen, and inspectors, as needed.

Department of Health—Public health, welfare, sanitation, housing, food supply, detention hospital, quarantine, garbage disposal, and clinics.

Personnel: Health officer, sanitary inspector, visiting nurse, school nurse and matron of detention hospital.

Department of Safety—Law enforcement, fire protection, building inspection, plumbing inspection, electrical inspection, scaler of weights.

Personnel: Chief of police, chief of fire department, plumbing, building and electrical inspectors, scaler of weights.

Department of Law—All city legal advice. Personnel: City attorney.

Several important changes are being made in the organization of the city engineer's office, replacing the old street commissioner and separate street department idea. All these agencies are consolidated instead of working independently as before. The engineer becomes a real part of the department of finance, and the bookkeeper for the water department becomes general bookkeeper for all finances of the city.

While the manager has created five departments, it is not his plan to draw sharp lines of distinction between them. Rather it is his idea to have them all work as a unit, with one helping and co-operating with another in any exceptional rush of work. For example, recently a water works foreman co-operated with the street engineer by operating the street roller one day when the regular operator was ill. Other workers will be used to stamp envelopes and do other work for the mailing of tax notices.

DIVIDENDS REACH SEVERAL MILLION

Holiday Disbursements Large; Good Increase Over Last Year Seen.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] New York—Holiday disbursements to stockholders in American industrial and railroad corporations in the form of extra, increased or annual dividends, exclusive of the regular quarterly payments declared during December, will total well in excess of $50,000,000, according to reliable estimates in the financial district.

Total dividend disbursements by such corporations which include practically all of those having wide stock distribution in December is expected to exceed $150,000,000 while the year's dividends probably will aggregate more than $1,000,000,000, as compared with about $875,000,000 in 1922.

Interest payments to bond holders, including disbursements of this character on government obligations, average approximately $200,000,000 a month or $2,400,000,000 for the year.

Accurate statistics for the first 11 months of 1923 disclose dividend payments by industrial corporations of $485,710,500 and by railroads of $315,686,000, as compared with $474,820,300 and $235,538,400, respectively, for the corresponding period last year.

THREE NEW BOOKS AT LIBRARY WORTHY OF MUCH ATTENTION

"The Rover," by Joseph Conrad, "Raw Material," by Dorothy Canfield, and "The Amateur Inn," by Rex Terhune are the three newest books at the public library, which were put into circulation this week.

"Raw Material" is probably worthy of the most attention, possibly not because it is the best, but because it is an example of a new form of literature. It is a presentation of the raw material of life from which novels are made, and consists mainly of character studies, episodes that show a temperament and incidents that shape a destiny.

A story of a sailor during the Napoleonic wars who has left the sea to spend the remainder of his days in peace in his native village on an obscure section of the French coast, but who becomes involved in a romance and a secret diplomatic operation, is told in "The Rover," by Joseph Conrad.

What is said to be the best mystery story ever written by Albert Payson Terhune, is "The Amateur Inn," and contains as much adventure as "Black Caesar's Clan," and others by the same author.

SPECIAL FOOD FOR ANIMAL GUESTS

New York's Board Bill for Inhabitants of Zoo $50,000 Yearly.

New York—New York's board bill for the beasts, birds and fishes the city houses in the Bronx and Central park zoos and the Aquarium in Battery park exceeds $50,000 a year. The board of some of the captives from remote corners of the globe is especially high because of the peculiar tastes they bring from their native haunts.

The board bill for the inhabitants of the Bronx zoo last year was $34,028.74, not including certain food commodities grown on the zoo farm in the park. Needs for the inhabitants of the Central park zoo cost $12,250, and the board bill of the denizens of the Aquarium totals $3,000 annually, not including sea food gathered directly from nearby waters for the more finicky guests.

Leading all other captives in the cost of his board is the big African elephant in the Bronx zoo. His daily entree of 200 pounds of hay, with desert of vegetables, fruit and bread, costs between $7 and $8 daily. His daily countryman, the plump elephant, eats only half as much.

These "heavy boarders" contrast sharply with the deer, which are fed on 50 cents a day, or even less. But see there is a head of 120, their upkeep is far from a negligible item.

The meat bills of each of the five lions in the Bronx zoo average about 50 cents a day. The tigers eat about the same amount, while the leopards eat about one-third less. All these jungle beasts are now fed beef. They once were fed horse flesh, but this diet proved too rich for them.

Of all the temperamental eaters, the big python, which measures 23 feet, holds the record. His board bill is only $8 a month, but he has his own as an as to how his monthly meal should be served. He insists on a live pig, but the keepers play a trick on him. Each month they take a pig to his cage, kill it outside, then placing it at once in the cage, move it about with sticks. The python thinks the pig is alive and gulps it down with relish.

The eagle is the heaviest eater among the birds with a daily board bill of about 40 cents. He usually is satisfied with meat, although a stray cat is now and then fed to him.

At the Aquarium the sea lion, Buster, now 21 years old, is the heaviest eater. His diet of herring and cod costing $500 a year. The sea horses are the only Aquarium boarders that demand live food. The surrounding waters are scoured for sea lettuce, which is always swarming with minute shrimps, worms, tiny crabs and baby mussels, which the sea horse bolts down avidly. Sea horses have a weakness for guppies, a small fish from the tropics, but it would cost $15 daily to feed each sea horse on these delicacies.

SAILSTAD AND GIRL ON WAY TO SUPERIOR

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Salt Lake City.—The second lap of the journey of Edward Sallstad and Dorothy Anderson from Napa, Cal., to Superior, Wis., to stand trial for arson is expected to end in Denver tonight with the arrival there of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad train which left here late yesterday afternoon, bearing Sallstad and Miss Anderson, in custody of Sheriff W. A. Hagreen of Douglas county, Wisconsin.

The party arrived in Salt Lake City at 4:30 yesterday afternoon via the Western Pacific and, after remaining here 15 minutes continued eastward toward Denver. Sallstad and Miss Anderson remained behind drawn curtains in the Pullman and declined to see newspaper men.

The authorities said the prisoners were in good spirits and that Sallstad was eager to get back to Wisconsin and have the matter settled.

BIRTHPLACE AREAS IN BRITAIN FAMED

Franklin, Washington, Adams Families Came from Same District.

Washington.—That Benjamin Franklin, a great-grandfather, who was a blacksmith, may have plied his trade on horses owned by the ancestors of George Washington and of John Adams and John Quincy Adams, has been the subject of a study by a family of these famous families ever dreamed of trying their fortunes in America. It is an interesting possibility developed by the discovery and recent purchase and dedication of the Adams ancestral home at Fliore, Northamptonshire, less than ten miles from the Washington home at Sulgrave, and the Franklin home at Eton.

Not content with being the source of the Washington, Adams and Franklin families, Northamptonshire, a small inland county only a trifle larger than Cook county, like other which "Chicago" spreads, also claims that within a 10-mile radius of Sulgrave major lived the ancestors of Henry W. Longfellow, the late Warren G. Harding, and William Penn, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society.

Notable Virginia Region.—From Northamptonshire and the counties to the north, Lincoln, York, and Nottingham, came the main stream of pioneer English stock to settle and make America, but few place names challenge Northamptonshire's claim as an outstanding garden of heroes and great minds.

On counterpart to Northamptonshire in the United States is a county in Virginia. On a clear day, one can stand on the waters of the Blue Ridge mountains at the intersection of Rockingham, Greene, and Madison counties and see over a countrywide containing the life-long home of Madison, in Orange county, the birthplace of John Marshall at Midland, the birthplace of Thomas Jefferson at Shadwell, the birthplace of Woodrow Wilson at Staunton, the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln's father at Broadway, the birthplace of John Sevier, first governor of Tennessee, near Laurel Springs, and the birthplace of Zachary Taylor near Orange.

"Within a radius of 75 miles from a point 42 miles northwest of Richmond, Va., were born 25 men whose names loom large in American history: George Washington, James Monroe, Thomas Lightfoot Lee, Richard Henry Lee, and Robert E. Lee in Westmoreland county; Zachary Taylor and James Madison in Orange county; Lincoln's father and John Sevier, Rockingham county; Thomas Jefferson in Albemarle county; Henry Clay and Patrick Henry in Hanover county; John Randolph, Chesterfield county; Woodrow Wilson in Augusta county; George Mason in Stafford county; John Tyler and Benjamin Harrison, Charles City county; General Winfield Scott, Dinwiddie county; John Marshall, Fauquier county; Sam Houston, Rockbridge county; and three signers of the Declaration of Independence, Carter Braxton, King and Queen county; John Penn, Carroll county; and George Walton, Frederick county.

Seven From Ohio.—Ohio has produced seven presidents, but she generously distributed the honors to all parts of the state. "Geologists delving into strata of society, like geologists exploring generations of rocks, are discovering in Northamptonshire, and other districts of England, Scotland and Wales, what many of these whose sons dared to cross 3,000 miles of ocean in tiny vessels to build a new nation. They have found that not only was

DAN CUPID RIDES WINNER AGAINST NOTED TURFMAN

Carl Weidemann and his fiancée, Miss Allyn King.

A romance that began nine years ago is to culminate shortly in the marriage of Carl Weidemann, Kentucky turfman and owner of "In Memoriam" and Miss Allyn King, stage beauty. They met when Weidemann was a student at Yale, Miss King says, however, that she will continue her stage career.

Benjamin Franklin's grandfather a blacksmith, but that the noted philosopher, printer, postmaster-general, scientist, statesman came from a long line of blacksmiths.

"The Washingtons were wool merchants," William and Thomas Randolph, also of Northamptonshire, came to America to repair their fortunes, which had been ruined by the Cromwell revolution. William Penn's mother was a daughter of a Dutch merchant of Rotterdam, and his father was an English admiral. Roger Williams is said by certain authorities to have been the son of a London tailor, while John Harvard, for whom Harvard university is named, was the son of a London butcher. The father of William Brewster, immortal leader of the Puritan band that landed at Plymouth in 1620, was postmaster and balliff of the little village of Secobry in Northamptonshire. William Bradford, who succeeded John Currier of Northamptonshire as governor of the Plymouth colony, came from Austerfield, Yorkshire, four miles from Secobry. Indications are that he was also of English yeoman stock.

Geography and Genealogy.—"This part of northwest England, from which came the families of so many staunch American leaders, is that part of the island in which the waves of early invasions melted one into the other. The Saxons and the Angles landed along this west coast, fought, conquered and then intermarried with the native Britons. In 879 the Danes overran these rolling grass plains, repeating the cycle.

"Then, in 1066, came the Normans of Viking stock transplanted to France. They did their best to impress the French customs and French language on their new people. Instead, out of the welter of antagonism between Norman lord and native serf came a new language, the English language, and a new people, the English people, hewing from the component races, but bearing a definite flavor and individuality unrelated to continental civilization.

Tuberculosis and Puritans.—"This new racial fusion asserted itself in the very country from which America drew heavily to found the republic. In Nottinghamshire's Sherwood forest, Robin Hood became the popular hero, representing the native classes, successfully challenging the Norman lords. He was a legendary ideal yeoman, one of the class destined to stand king's prerogative but his bid to make the institutions of democratic government.

"In Northampton, in 1215, the barons gathered to oppose King John, and forced the signing of the Magna Charta at Runnymede. It has also been the meeting place of many parliaments. Throughout this region were strongholds of the Puritan revolution led by Cromwell. The heritage of independence was brought to America by families from this region.

Some Famous Vermonter.

"President Coolidge was born at Plymouth, Vermont. Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, was born in the neighboring village of Hartland, 18 miles from the Coolidge homestead.

"President Arthur and Senator George F. Edmunds were born in the north part of the state, not far from Mrs. Coolidge's birthplace, Burlington. Ethan Allen, famous Revolutionary hero, though born in Connecticut, lived at Bennington. His courage led to the drawing up of a constitution at Windsor, 15 miles from the Coolidge home, under which Vermont became a free and independent state for 14 years. George Harvey, former ambassador to England, was born at Pecham, Bergham Young at Wiltshire, Admiral Dwyer at Montpelier, and Admiral Clark of the famous Oregon cruise at Bradford, some 40 miles north of Plymouth. Rudyard Kipling married Caroline Balestier at Brattleboro, living four years in this city, which is a three-hour drive from the Coolidge farm. Not far from Brattleboro lives Dorothy Canfield Fisher, the novelist, who is a Vermonter by adoption."

Hopes for Large Sale of Seals

Determination to make Janesville's sale of penny Christmas seals the greatest it has ever had and to win for this city a high place on the list of the 60 towns having local tuberculosis associations is the keynote of the 1923 seal sale campaign here, according to the Rev. Henry Willmann, local chairman. Although the campaign has been in progress but a short time, local people in charge of the sale say they are confident Janesville will "go over the top" in the fight against tuberculosis.

"The tuberculosis campaign is everybody's job," said the Rev. Mr. Willmann, "and the Christmas seal gives everyone an opportunity to do his share. The work of the association is limited only by the extent of its funds and the seal sale is the one appeal that is made during the year for money to carry on this work. The larger the sale the better the campaign will be able to put on next year against the white plague, and the more extensive the work the faster will come the day when tuberculosis will be entirely controlled. This Christmas seal sale is the most democratic method in existence for raising funds, the penny seal making it possible for children and people of small means to have a part in the work. The educational value of the penny Christmas seal is far more important than its value as a fund-raising medium, for it focuses the attention of the entire state and nation on the importance of the fight for health. Because millions have given to the support of this campaign, millions have been aroused to a self-protective fight against tuberculosis.

"The fact that one-half of the funds is retained for local use should be a special incentive to everyone to contribute as generously as possible, for it means better health for the community. Each buyer of seals gets direct returns, making the purchase of seals a valuable investment."

"ROBIN HOOD" OF INDIA IS KILLED

Shot to Death with Lieutenant in Battle Against Police Force.

Madras, India.—Jumbalingam, a notorious bandit known for many years as the Robin Hood of India, has been shot dead with his lieutenant, Kasi, in an affray with the British police. The death of this leader, marking the end of a long campaign on the part of the police, was the result of a sudden night raid. Constable surrounded the house in which Jumbalingam and other bandits were sleeping. The inmates of the house made a spirited defense, killing the Indian police officer in charge of the party and wounding several others, but were soon overpowered by force of numbers and were shot down.

Sensational Exploits.—Operating in the hilly tract between the Tinnevely district and Travancore State, Jumbalingam and his robber band became widely celebrated for their innumerable exploits and their sensational escapes from the police, even after arrest. The bandits made their home in almost inaccessible mountain places, and from these points of vantage made frequent raids into the plains. Disguised as holy men or innocent beggars, they frequented the country roads and relieved travelers of whatever valuables they possessed.

On one occasion when Jumbalingam and a number of his confederates were confined in the Central Jail at Palamcottah, he, by some means yet a mystery, obtained keys to all the cells where his men were confined, and enabled the whole party to escape, unnoticed by any of the guards or warders set over them.

Rob Guards; Escape.—At another time the police captured the bandits by the aid of an ex-convict who, on promise of a reward, joined Jumbalingam's gang and, at a suitable opportunity, betrayed it to the police party. As Jumbalingam and his fellows were being led to jail, in charge of an armed guard, they succeeded not only in escaping but in stripping the guards of their uniforms and taking their carbines and ammunition.

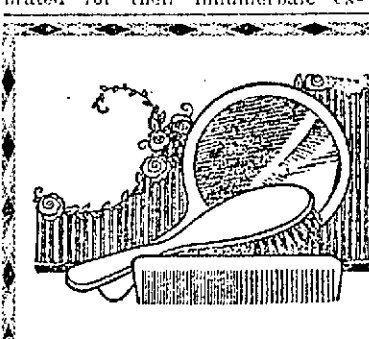

Jumbalingam perpetrated many of his recent robberies by impersonating a police officer charged with the special duty of capturing him. A heavy price had been offered for his head for several years.

FRUITS PLENTIFUL FOR HOLIDAY TRADE

Oranges Among Cheapest Varieties Obtainable—Lemon Prices Lower.

With the large supplies of California fruit now flooding the market, oranges are not only one of the best fruits to be obtained but are one of the cheapest. Best seedling California fruit sells largely from 15c to 20c, with some dealers selling as low as 10c per dozen, according to size. Navela are the coming variety, and while there are large numbers of Florida oranges on the market, the season for them is passing. They sell for about 50c.

Large grapefruit of very good quality are plentiful, and sell for from 5 to 10c each. All now obtainable come from Florida.

Bananas becoming scarce. On account of recent storms on the plantations, bananas are becoming scarce, according to wholesale merchants, and are worth from 12 to 15c pound.

Tangerines, shipped here from Alabama and Florida, are reasonably priced, selling about on a level with last year, at 60c per dozen.

Lower prices on lemons are seen as a result of the larger supplies arriving. The prices on them at present range from 30 to 40c or 45c per dozen, about the same as a week ago.

Apples of all varieties, of good quality, are obtainable. Jonathans and Winesaps are $2.25 per bushel; Baldwin, $1.70 to $2; greenings, $1.65 to $1.75; Northern Spies, extra fancy, 12 1/2 to 15c pound; Kings, Tallman Sweeties, and New York Snows are about the same price. Delicious, extra fancy, are from 10 to 12c pound.

Eastern cranberries, Christmas pack, are slightly higher, and sell for from 12 1/2 to 15c mostly.

DAIRY COWS SELL AT STEADY RATE

Reports Show Increased Demand for Wisconsin Cattle from Other States.

A lively demand for dairy cattle during the month of November is noted by A. C. Collettine, of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, in his monthly dairy cattle report.

Records show that 6129 head of cattle were moved out of the state during November. Iowa was the largest buyer, importing 1825 head into the Hawkeye state. Illinois ran a close second with 1002 while Minnesota with 740 head was in third place. Canada, Chile, Mexico and Central America representatives purchased 216 head to be exported to their respective countries. Nebraska, New York, North Dakota, South Dakota, Georgia, Connecticut and Kansas were the other leading buyers of the month.

The big demand for dairy cattle is partially due to the call for animals to replace those lost by being slaughtered after reacting to the tuberculosis test. Collettine declared. Figures show that 19,427 head reacted during last month, the largest percentage of which were dairy animals.

Buy Dairy Cattle In the single crop areas dairy herds are being established and the demand from this quarter continues to flourish. Growth in the corn, wheat, cotton, tobacco, fruit and alfalfa sections are looking to the dairy cow more and more as a way out of their financial difficulties.

A check-up on purchased sales held during the month shows buyers outgunning liberally where quality stock predominated. Spirited bidding was reported for a number of choice cows, with the top price reaching $2000 for bulls, with cows topping at $530. The buyer is discriminating against off-type stock.

Grade cattle Prices. Prices on grade stock remained rather constant, with cow stuff a little higher due to increased prices prevailing on dairy products. heart," among those associated with her, in London in the year following the World war, "Three Live Ghosts," to be presented by the senior class of the high school in the auditorium theme at 8:05 tonight, is expected to attract a record crowd. It is stated that almost all seats have been sold. Those who will take part, with the character represented, are: Mrs. Gubbins, Edith Everman; Peggy Woofers, Harriet Gillingham; Bolton, an American detective, Bernard Somerfelt; Jimmie Gubbins, Frederick Hyslop; William Foster, alias William Jones, Arthur Malmberg; Spooly, George Paske; Rose Gordon, Resie Miller; Briggs, of Scotland Yard, Woodie Miller; Benson, Lawrence Gower; Lady Leicester, Father Damerow.

All of the three acts are laid in the home of "Old Sweetheart," in London. While the play does not permit the use of elaborate scenery, that which has been constructed is very realistic, and represents the interior of an old-fashioned home, and with the furniture and decorations popular 50 years ago, furnishes a suitable background. While the scenery may appear somewhat old-fashioned and slow, the action which takes place in front of it is of a different type, the whole story being allied with exciting and comical episodes.

COLUMBUS GREAT TRAVEL WRITER

Remarkably Observant Narrative of Indies Given by Discoverer.

Washington—Ask your friends to name a few of the great travel writers of all times and you will get many names—Marco Polo, Richard Hakluyt, Henry M. Stanley—probably none will mention Columbus.

If he did and you inquired "which Columbus?" he would conclude you were asking a trick question. "The fame of Christopher Columbus as both discoverer and travel writer has been overshadowed by the more remarkable account of what he found among the Indies and the biographical narrative of his son, Ferdinand Columbus," says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society.

"Both documents are accessible and known to geographers and historians, indeed the latter's authorship has aroused considerable controversy, yet they are not read so popularly as are many other travel classics."

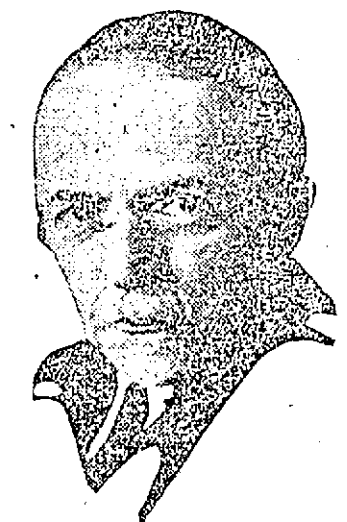

"Stretching to Stars"—An example of the descriptive style of Columbus is quoted from his remarkable account of what he found among the Indies and the biographical narrative of his son, Ferdinand Columbus, says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society.

"This island is surrounded by many very safe and wild harbors, not excelled by any others that I have ever seen. Many great and saltish rivers flow through it. There are also many very high mountains there."

"All these islands are very beautiful, and distinguished by various qualities; they are accessible, and full of a great variety of trees stretching up to the stars; the leaves of which I believe are never shed, for I saw them as green and flourishing as they are usually in Spain in the month of May; some of them were blossoming, some were bearing fruit, some were in other conditions; each one was thriving in its own way. The nightingale and various other birds without number were singing in the month of November, when I was exploring them. There are besides in the said island Juana seven or eight kinds of palm trees, which far exceed ours in height and beauty, just as all the other trees, herbs, and fruits do."

"Held Visitors Coolest"—Of the natives of the islands Columbus wrote: "These people practice no kind of idolatry; on the contrary they firmly believe that all strength and power, and in fact all good things are in heaven, and that I had come down from thence with these ships and sailors; and in this belief I was received there after they had put aside fear. Nor are they slow or ungrateful, but of excellent and acute understanding; and the men who have navigated that sea give an account of everything in admirable manner; but they never saw people clothed, nor this kind of ships."

"One island which Columbus called Mateuain, probably Martinique, he believed to be inhabited only by women."

"These women," he said, "perform no kind of work of their sex, for they use bow and darts; they protect themselves with sheets of copper. They tell me of another island, whose inhabitants are without hair, and which abounds in gold above all others."

Commercial Report
The explorer's summary of the commercial advantages of the islands said: "I promise this, that if I am supported by our most invincible sovereigns with a little of their help, as much gold can be supplied as they will need indeed, as much of spices, of cotton, of chewing-gum (which is only found in Ghos), also as much of aloe-wood, and as many slaves for the navy, as their majesties will wish to demand."

Interesting sidelights on the first trans-Atlantic voyage abound in the biography of Ferdinand Columbus, based on his illustrious father's log. This journal contained a surprising amount of data telling what winds

Cleveland—Twenty-three cooperative labor banks will be in operation in Cleveland with the completion of the three now under organization. It is indicated from information collected by the All-American cooperative commission here.

In a short time the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks' National Bank will open in Cincinnati with capital and surplus of $250,000. The new bank of the International Ladies' Aid Society of America will open its doors in New York with a capital and surplus of $500,000. President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers of America, is head of the United Labor Bank & Trust Co., of Indianapolis, which is capitalized at $1,000,000. Its backers announced Jan. 2 as the date of opening business.

Notice of incorporation has been filed in Albany for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' Cooperative Trust company, New York, seven proposed incorporators of which are directors of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' Cooperative National bank of Cleveland. Organization details have not yet been announced but it is expected the bank will be started some time during the winter.

Information collected here shows that the resources of all the labor banks in the United States, including those now forming, are about $40,000,000. More than one-half of this amount, however, represents the resources of the Engineers' Bank of Cleveland, which, founded in 1921, was the third labor bank of the country.

Crossland, a prominent resident of Miami, Fla., for his alleged activities of the steamship Henry J. Marabull, and the jailing of a Madison, N. J., saloonkeeper for violating the prohibition law, were upheld by the United States circuit court of appeals in decisions handed down here Thursday.

FOUR IN JAIL AS CHRISTMAS NEARS

With Christmas but two weeks away it doesn't look like Sheriff Fred Deley will have to play Santa Claus to a large number of guests. At the present time there are only four being held in jail. Pedro Elias, Beloit, was sentenced to 30 days Dec. 1 for intoxication and William Lennon, Janesville, is serving a similar sentence for the same offense and will be released Jan. 2. Abe Weiser, Chicago, assessed $1,000 by Judge Clark when 50 gallons of alcohol was found in his motorcar. He is still trying to raise his fine and gain release. Clyde Mitchell, Beloit, awaits trial for non-support.

MOTOR SWEEPER IS THROUGH TILL SPRING

With the arrival of freezing weather this week, daily operation of the large motor driven street sweeping machine has been discontinued for the winter. The machine has performed excellent service in the few weeks it has been in use. It made its last trip in the downtown district Monday. It is explained that the use of the outfit is not desirable or practicable in winter because dirt and refuse becomes frozen to the pavement and cannot be swept up.

Lawrence Cagers

Get Western Trip

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Appleton — A football game next season against Iowa State university in Iowa City, on Oct. 18, and a basketball trip that will carry the cagers against one Wisconsin and three Iowa quintets early in January, were announced for Lawrence college athletes by Coach J. C. Denny, director of athletics. The football game against Iowa State will be that institution's opener, and for Lawrence will take the place of the game up to a year ago annually played against Wisconsin university.

The basketball trip is the first of its kind in the history of the college. Denny, who last week began work fashioning his five, plans to carry seven men. They will open against Duquesne university at Duquesne, Jan. 8, will tackle Hampton college, Jan. 11, and on Jan. 13 will close against Columbia college at Columbia, S. C. In addition, Denny announced the arrangement of a game for January 3 at this city against Concordia college of Milwaukee. It will be the first game of the season.

Lawrence is negotiating for two basketball dates this season against Marquette, Milwaukee. Tentative dates are Jan. 25, at Milwaukee, and March 7, at Appleton.

Though Lawrence closed Wednesday, for the Christmas holidays, Denny will keep a squad of men working twice daily until well up to Christmas. The men will return several days before the opening of school again in January.

Badgers at Iowa

Gridiron in 1925

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Iowa City, Ia. — Games scheduled with the University of Wisconsin and Butler college have nearly completed the football card of the University of Iowa. Coach Jones' men will meet Butler at Iowa City, Nov. 25, and will travel to Madison to entertain the Wisconsin homecoming on Nov. 25. The Badger contract calls for a game at Iowa City in 1925.

Only one more game remains to be scheduled. Coach Jones is negotiating with several teams to open the season at Iowa City, Oct. 4, but has made no final arrangements. A South Dakota Agricultural College of Fargo is a possibility.

The schedule to date follows: Oct. 11, Ohio State at Iowa City; Oct. 18, Lawrence at Iowa City; Nov. 8, Minnesota at Iowa City (Homecoming); Nov. 11, Illinois at Urbana; Nov. 15, Wisconsin at Madison; Nov. 22, Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Jones Is Wary

of Round Robin

Madison — The round robin plan of scheduling football games for the western conference would not prove satisfactory unless schools would be permitted to retain traditional rivals on their schedules. T. B. Jones, director of athletics at Wisconsin university declared Friday.

"If each school would agree to play its traditional rivals and retain the remainder of the terms, I think the system would be highly successful," Jones said.

Midwest Colleges

It was stated Thursday by Coach John Van Liew of Knox college, Lake Forest and Monmouth colleges are mentioned as likely candidates. Knox and James Millikin university are the present Illinois members. The others are Coe, Ripon, Carleton, Lawrence, Beloit, Grinnell, Hamilton.

While Ohio State's cross country team won the annual "Big Ten" cross country run at Columbus recently Harold H. Phelps of Iowa was the individual star. He won the event and came within two seconds of tying the mark of 26 minutes 14 seconds, established in 1915 by Capt. Watson of Minnesota. His work places him in line for a tryout with the Olympic candidates. Iowa finished fourth in the team totals.

POSSES SEARCHING
NORTH WOODS FOR
SLAYER, 4 OTHERS

Residents of Coudersville, Wis., near here, who had testified against McCann and whom he had threatened to have threatened with violence.

Hitchhikers Are Watched
Nearly two men were sent out from here to watch highways and settlements and comb the back pine forests for McCann and Wade. Both fugitives were seen and without food, and officials expect that neither will be able to withstand the near-zero weather very long.

Despite McCann's record as a "bad man" which contains four instances of shootings, with two deaths, officials do not expect any strong resistance from him if he is cornered.

McCann was convicted by a jury here Wednesday of a charge of slaying Frank Allen near Lexington last August and was sentenced to life imprisonment. The sheriff was making arrangements to take him and Wade to the state prison at Waupun when the men escaped.

Wade Fled From Jail
Just how McCann and Wade got away, the authorities could not say. It is believed, however, that they obtained a key or sprung the locks in the cell and walked out during the sheriff's absence.

Whether they had aid from outside sources is not known. There is a possibility that they may have had an automobile planted near the jail to escape in.

Mrs. McCann and her son, Henry, spent the day at their farm at Coudersville, and the authorities are convinced they had nothing to do with the escape.

Five Ashland Jail
The Stoen brothers escaped during the supper hour Wednesday from the Ashland jail. They took a delivery truck from an Ashland store and abandoned it at Madison, Wis. A reward of $200 had been offered for their capture. Both men, who had previous criminal records, were to have been tried at the February term of court and since being placed in jail in October had twice unsuccessfully tried to escape.

HOW CHRIST CAME TO THE UNITED STATES

COMMENT ON THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
FOR DECEMBER 10, 1923.Read Acts 16 and 28.
WM. SOUTHERN, JR.

Again in the study of the building of the Christian church and the spread of Christianity from Jerusalem over the whole world we meet that tireless, saint of the apostles, Paul the Apostle. Indeed it would be impossible to study the history of Christianity without meeting Paul at every turn.

Paul's ambition was to preach in Jerusalem and then with Luke and Timothy he traveled from place to place, always raising in a wider circle. He would stop and preach, rather than in a few converts, perhaps raise a riot, be thrown into prison, beaten and left for dead, he always moved on and built little fires for Christianity which spread and grew until churches lined his pathway.

Paul's ambition was to preach in Jerusalem, but by an entirely different route. Missionaries from Rome, which became a Christian city, went into Germany, Scandinavia, France and to the British Isles. After the reformation the Huguenots, Lutherans, Puritans, Dutch Reformed and Covenanters brought the faith to the colonies in America.

In Green's history of England this story is told: Five hundred years after Paul crossed into Macedonia and the Roman Empire had become Christian, a Christian preacher lived in Rome. One day he visited the market place where captives from other lands were offered for sale as slaves. He saw three young men of the like of whom he had never seen before. He was greatly struck with their beauty. They were strong and well built, with fair skins, blue eyes and golden hair. He asked from whence they came and was told that they were Angles from across the narrow sea. They worshipped the sun, the moon and some gods with strange names: Tiw, Woden, Thor and a goddess called Frigg.

With all the wonderful history of Christianity in our hands it is strange how any Christian can be opposed to foreign missions. Foreign Missions started with Paul and carried Christianity away from the narrow confines of Palestine. It was not without quarrels and hickings, for there were men in these days who believed that Christ came to the Jews only and that none could become Christian except by the way of the Moslem ritual. Paul's

These men and what was said about them gave to the Christian preacher, Gregory, as distinct a vision and call as the cry which came from Macedonia to Paul. He could hear the Angles calling "Come over and help us." Gregory could not be spared from his place in the church, but he never forgot the wonderful strangers and he never ceased to ask about their country. He could not go himself to preach the gospel to them, and a wider way was opened for him. He became Pope himself the head of the Christian church. Then it was that he sent a band of 40 missionaries under a leader named Augustine to the heathens here at home. Augustine and his band of 40 missionaries, but for Paul, we would not know the unspeakable riches of Jesus Christ.

There are many of us like Gregory who are tired by our duties to this place, but unlike Gregory we do not always carry the vision before us. God has a way of making all things clear and there are some of us who could easily send 40 missionaries to Africa, God would provide the leader. Perhaps if you should go yourself you could not accomplish it at all. Perhaps the band you do send with you money may be recorded in the sacred histories of Gospel winning as is the story of Pope Gregory here recorded. No other fame, no other satisfaction would be compared to the matter what your attainment of wealth and place and power might be.

I hope that some person who reads this comment will be in history as the one who carried Christianity to a tribe or to a nation. Certainly we in this wonderful Christian land can always see the vision and hear the call, "Come over into Macedonia and help us."

activities brought this controversy to a head and at a great convention in Jerusalem where Peter and John and James and Barnabas spoke, it was decided that faith in Jesus Christ was the sole requisite for entrance into the new church.

We now have our part to bear, to carry on as did Paul. There are today in Africa more applications for admission to the Christian church than there are officials, including native officials, to receive them and enroll them. The man or woman who advocates a policy of selfish isolation and demands that we devote our time and our money to the heathens here at home, should remember that, but for missionaries, but for Paul, we would not know the unspeakable riches of Jesus Christ.

There are many of us like Gregory who are tired by our duties to this place, but unlike Gregory we do not always carry the vision before us. God has a way of making all things clear and there are some of us who could easily send 40 missionaries to Africa, God would provide the leader. HOW TO ANSWER CLASSIFIED ADS.
In answering classified or want ads, which ask that the applicant address some care, please give such as 247, our readers are again asked to bear in mind that this office has nothing to do with the ads. These answers must be sent to the person who answers to this office, addressed with the 247 or whatever it may be. This office will then forward the letter or post office, turning over the answers to the person who advertises. He in turn will then if he desires telephone or write to the person who is seeking the position.

It must also be borne in mind that the Gazette can not reveal the identity of the advertiser, who of course, would not have advertised as he did if he wished the applicants to call on him in person.

CLASSIFIED AD REPLIES
At 10:00 o'clock today there were replies in the Gazette office in the following boxes:
100, 107.

"EXPRESSION OF GRATITUDE" AND "IN MEMORIAM CARDS"
I wish to express my sincere gratitude to the friends, relatives and neighbors who were so kind during the illness and death of my beloved mother, Mrs. Mary Brown. I wish also to thank the Rev. Seiler for his words of comfort, and all who so liberally sent their beautiful floral tributes.
Franklin Brown.

Made with the Choicest Imported Almonds

TO maintain the uniformly fine flavor of Johnston's Dandy all the almonds used are imported from the hillside groves of sunny Italy. It's these big, plump, meaty almonds that make the Dandy so delightfully tasty.

The moment you bite into one of these fresh, crisp, Dutch-style cookies, its delicious nut-flavor pleases you. To give added zest, the Dandy is delicately spiced. A plain cookie, to be sure, but wonderfully appetizing and healthful.

Serve Dandys frequently—for luncheon or supper, with fruit sauce, custard or frozen dessert. Give them to your youngsters to satisfy that between-meal hunger. Or serve them to your guests with afternoon tea or with after-theatre refreshments. Any of the grocers listed will gladly supply you.
